

1000 yards out of the box

Gunwerks

LONG RANGE UNIVERSITY

New Mexico Antelope

The key to proficient long range shooting, as with anything, is proper instruction and hands on training. Learn from the best in the business what is really necessary to make a 500 - 700 yard shot in a hunting situation. Long range shooting professionals, Aaron and Mike Davidson from Gunwerks, are now offering an intensive two day class using the best equipment in the industry to 16 Cabela's Outdoor Adventures clients. Learn from these long range shooting aficionados things like the science behind bullet and cartridge selection, simplification techniques, as well as how to compensate for bullet drop, coriolis, spin-drift and wind direction. In summary, it is their mission to educate shooters on equipment and technique that promote ethical one shot kills at longer range. This in-depth, hands-on training course will significantly reduce your time to proficiency! The highest quality scoped long range rifles, all shooting equipment and ammunition will be provided. Your time will be split between the classroom and bench/field shooting.

Best of all, after attending this comprehensive 2 day class you will then hit the field for an enjoyable, fully-guided, 2 day New Mexico antelope hunt with one of the state's finest operators. The ranch you will be hunting encompasses 40 thousand acres of excellent antelope ground where you should be able to harvest a great goat in the 13" to 16" range. All meals and comfortable wall tent accommodations will be provided.

Rates	$5,500 (1x1); $5,000 (2x1) Plus 6% tax.
Dates	August 24-27, 2012.
Included	2 day class/ 2 day hunt, guns and ammo, guides, meals, lodging, in-field transportation and trophy care.
Transportation	Fly to Albuquerque, NM and rent a car. Directions to camp will be provided by the outfitter.
License	Approximately $270 – Cabela’s to collect. A hunter’s safety card is required if under the age of 18.